

Defence Question in Background As Trade Takes Front

By GRANT DEXTER

London Bureau of The Dominion
Bureau and Winnipeg Free Press LONDON, June 10.—While trade policies and foreign affairs have held the spotlight throughout the Imperial Conference, questions of defence have also been constantly under discussion, but the cherished hope of the British government, that empire defence could be pushed to the forefront of conference business have not been realized because the dominions have been extraordinarily hard-bodied when matters of confederation with the home government are being considered and the key dominion, so far as British defence is concerned, has been absent from the conference table.

So far as Canada is concerned every suggestion of direct cooperation between the governments in defence of the empire has been declined with but nevertheless with firmness, and Prime Minister Mackenzie King will return home just as uncommitted to imperial war preparation as he was when he left Canada.

Other dominions have adopted precisely the same attitude, qualified by their own defence requirements. They have advised cooperation only insofar as it stipulates their own defence problems.

NOTHING SPECTACULAR
In this respect there has been nothing spectacular or unusual in the Canadian attitude, and among dominions delegates there has been considerable amusement of the various suggestions which have been put forward by the British government for Imperial bodies to further empire defence.
The Imperial Defence Committee which is the senior body in this field, thus emerges from the conference with exactly the same status as previously existed.

NEITHER AGREE
Neither Canada nor South Africa have agreed to join this committee, and the proposal for a confederation committee failed to lure the dominion delegates, while the same fact at least had a dozen similar proposals.

That while the dominions have been extraordinarily cool and shy about accepting plans for empire defence bodies on the one hand, and have completely refused to accept of information and plans in this respect the conference has been a complete success.
The result is that all the governments will be completely informed regarding each other's plans and policies.

MANY DRASTIC CHANGES MADE IN PERSONNEL

Key Frontier Garrisons Are Shaken Up—Generals Believed Arrested

MOSCOW, June 10.—By drastic personnel changes the Soviet Union sought today to bolster its western and far eastern frontiers against the two powers it professes to consider most likely enemies, Germany and Japan.

The move had the red army command was shaken up in changes involving key frontier garrisons from Leningrad to the Iranian (Persian) border. The shifts meant new leadership along the whole western frontier, which Soviet spokesmen assert they believe the Reich may attack some day.

PORTFOLIO TRIALS

The Eastern Siberia eight important executives were named in a sweeping "denunciation" of the kind that almost certainly means arrest and trial for treason.

The men named held vital positions in the Soviet Union's amphibious forces, in the Far Eastern provinces a self-sufficient industrial and military community, a bulwark against Japan.

They were denounced as "Trotskyist traitors" by L. M. Yarkovskiy, secretary of the Far Eastern Communist party, in a speech in which he said that such "exposures" in similar cases have meant persons designated already were in prison.

Among them were named Marshal Mikhail Nikolaevich Tukachevsky, dismissed from his post as commander of the Volga military garrison after his denunciation. But later General M. G. Efremov was announced as the Volga commander. The 32 officers was no mention of Tukachevsky's fate.

The frontier shifts were these: Gen. Jeremey Olevievich was removed from command in White Russia, which touches Poland, and was given no new appointment. Gen. I. P. Belov was charged to replace him.

In the Leningrad district, north of White Russia and bordering the Baltic countries, Gen. I. E. Yakovlev was succeeded by Gen. P. D. Bessonov, and there was no disclosure of further appointment for Yakovlev.

TO LENINGRAD

He had been transferred to Leningrad from the Ukraine, in southern Russia, less than a year ago. There has been no announcement of a new Ukrainian commander.

Gen. I. E. Yakovlev, which borders Persia, Gen. N. V. Khrushchev was appointed commander. White changes to his post were not disclosed.

CORONARY THEOBOROS

The first bulletin was issued by Dr. Caspary, Laskov, his attending physician.

"After three weeks' illness due to coronary thrombosis, Sir Robert La Borden died today from cardiac exhaustion."

"Late yesterday afternoon the symptoms of congestive failure were manifested by the patient, and after a gradual decline the end came peacefully at 7:30 this morning."

"From its onset, on May 18, the condition was marked by extreme bodily weakness, although the patient was able to get up and walk, and to eat and drink."

"The patient was in the hospital, and was under the care of Dr. Caspary, Laskov, M.D."

PLACE REVEALED

Capital and country were not prepared for the announcement, but that fact did not diminish the sadness with which it was received. The Canadian people had reserved within their hearts a reverent place for Sir Robert, and they were not to be deceived by the official statement that he had been suffering from a heart ailment.

From government buildings here, following at half-mast, and wherever men gathered the news of Sir Robert's death was quickly received.

Those who had been his friends, and who had known him for many years, were not to be deceived by the official statement that he had been suffering from a heart ailment.

Battle Royal

Later on she may appreciate such chivalrous gestures, but the efforts of her young cousin, Count Folke Bernadotte, to place a protective arm about her, she would find unwelcome. She is the daughter of Princess Sibylla and Prince Gustav Adolf of Sweden's royal family.

stricken statesman. From all parts of the world came similar remarks.

Everywhere people refused to give up hope Sir Robert would recover, that they would again see the kindly face with the white locks luxuriant even to the last and again hear that deep resonant voice which once heard remained fixed in every memory.

After the morning and evening after the bulletin that Sir Robert's condition was not better, but never very near the final bulletin announcing his death.

UNITY WITHIN SACRED RANKS IS NECESSARY

April 14 to permit him to go to England to open negotiations with Major Douglas with a view to the latter coming here to act as special adviser in the establishment of Social Credit.

HELD CONFERENCE

Mr. MacLachlan saw Major Douglas in London, he said and at his summer residence at about the time he moved to Grosvenor Palace, where Major Douglas had gone for a holiday of socializing.

At this conference, it was decided that Mr. Powell would come here and common deliberations and then if the desired unity was achieved, Major Douglas himself would come out and put the finishing touches on the plan.

Mr. MacLachlan said Mr. Powell sailed on the Aquaria a week ago last Saturday and was expected to arrive on Monday last, and immediately he would be in touch with Mr. Powell.

SECOND EXPERT UNKINNED

Asked if Major Douglas and the Board had agreed on the second expert who is to come to a preliminary meeting with Major Douglas's arrival, Mr. MacLachlan said that no final decision had been made, but an early announcement will be made.

Replying to a question as to whether he thought that the purpose would be achieved and if the Social Credit plan could be put into effect, Mr. MacLachlan said: "We now have to wait to see if Mr. Powell, the man who may side with the party and who may side with the party and who may side with the party."

He said that if Mr. Powell, as Major Douglas's secretary, could be the man whom we all wanted. "There is a real possibility that should not all pull together for the good of all and for the early establishment of Social Credit. We all want Mr. Douglas and we have him, through his representative and will have him in person later on."

*Calgary Bride Bridegroom
Visiting Here*

Mrs. C. C. Helmer of Calgary and her bride, the former Hannah Parker, whose marriage was a event of wide interest in the southern city at the week-end, arrived in Edmonton en route to the wedding in Lethbridge. Mrs. Helmer has been appointed agent for the United Air Transport Lines, and are guests at the Selkirk Hotel.

Mrs. Helmer, who is the son of Mrs. Margaret Helmer and the late Mr. Helmer of Calgary, and his wife, the late Mrs. Hannah Parker, who is the daughter of Mr. A. Parker and the late Mrs. Parker of the same city, are well known socially in Edmonton as well as in Calgary.

The first Baptist church was the scene of their wedding, a simple ceremony performed at seven o'clock on the morning of Tuesday. Rev. Archibald officiating.

Mrs. E. Vaneas was the bride's only attendant and Mr. John Watt was the best man.

The bride looked especially lovely, complemented smartly as she was by a dark tulle gown with a wide lace collar, and wedding rings from the bridegroom. Her corsage was of deep red roses. Mrs. Vaneas was

Fifty guests were present at the reception arranged later at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Parker, who was assisted in receiving by the mother of the bridegroom, Mrs. Margaret Helmer, Mrs. Parker being gowned attractively in black crepe, with finishing touches of white and Mrs. Helmer wearing black velvet, with flowers in delicate pink tones.

Pink carnations in silver vases flanked the three-tiered wedding cake which centred the bride's table.

Mr. and Mrs. Helmer are leaving for Whitehorse by airplane on Wednesday next.

DOROTHY DIX Says:

UNDOUBTEDLY much domestic misery would be saved and many divorces prevented if in the days of courtship the engaged youth and maiden attempted to ascertain each other's views on a few practical points, instead of trying to take the temperature of each other's affections and find out if said emotions would always keep at the boiling point.

This may be a difficult thing to do for those who are venturing into matrimony for the first time because they do not know what virtues to look for and what faults to avoid in selecting their mates. Before marriage good looks, devotion, charm, gaiety seem the most desirable attributes in a husband or wife. After marriage you know that an entirely new line of qualities makes a man or woman endurable as a life partner.

So I would suggest that the engaged girl, instead of desiring to know of the Boy Friend whether he is utterly, perfectly, entirely certain that he will never cease to love her or lack a suitable woman, would lay off the sentimental goo-goo talk long enough to submit to him a few pertinent inquiries as to his point of view and convictions and reactions on the following subjects. Such as:

The money question. How much do you make in real money? Are you a spender or a saver? If I marry you, will I have to run a free hand on the money? Will you be always just one trap ahead of the Sheriff because you have no sales resistance? Will I have anything you can get on time? Or will you handle what you earn prudently and wisely so that we may look forward to living on Kay Street in our old age?

How do you stand on the allowance proposition? Are you going to make me a partner or a panhandler? Are you going to give me an allowance on which to run the house and the floral piece you sent to some stranger's funeral? Will we be always just one trap ahead of the Sheriff because you have no sales resistance? Will I have anything you can get on time? Or will you handle what you earn prudently and wisely so that we may look forward to living on Kay Street in our old age?

What are your views on the baby question? Do you regard children as blessings or brats? Would you look upon Junior as a well-spring of joy or just more expense?

Do you think a wife is entitled to a night of now and then and some amusement? Or do you think that just being married is entertainment enough for any woman? Would you take me stripping at least once a week and love me like a Lady Love or would you think my place was in the corner at home with the other household conveniences?

What about relatives? Would I have to live with mother-in-law or have mother-in-law live with me? Would I have to run a free hand for your people, while you look like an early Christian martyr if mine dropped in for a meal?

Are you argumentative? Are you one of the men to whom you cannot even say it is a pleasant day without starting something? Please answer each question fully or no because I couldn't stand a husband with whom I would be in a perpetual debate.

Have you the head-of-the-house complex? Will you expect your wife to know how to run and ask you if she may please, but a man who will let his wife run the house and expect her to be his mother, and if she may please a club? Or do you think that an intelligent, educated woman who has a head for business and is capable of managing her own affairs?

Are you going to do your part toward making a happy home after you are married, or are you going to dump the whole responsibility on your wife and expect her to do the wallowing you see in the grungy? These are some of the questions that every engaged girl should ask her fiancé and the answers she can form a very good idea of what sort of a husband he will make. DOROTHY DIX.

By MRS. GAYNOR MADDOX

No appetite is ever so un-willed that it can't be revived around dinner time. Novelty and delicacy must be in the culinary picture, however. That is where these three recipes come in. They are sufficiently unfamiliar to arouse interest wherever they are tried.

BROILED SWORDFISH

(4 to 6 servings)

Two 12-ounce swordfish steaks, 3 large broilers, 2 bright green peppers, 4 new carrots, salt, pepper, lemon and mashed potatoes.

Season fish steaks with salt and pepper. Broil slowly, turn and continue to broil until meat falls away from bone. Remove to oven on glass platter. Dot liberally with butter. Press, fluffy mashed potatoes through pastry tube making a fluted border around edge of platter. Brush potatoes with beaten egg yolk. Then return to broiler to brown and broil just long enough to give potato ring a handsome but gentle browning. Decorate the platter with half green peppers cut in half lengthwise, seeded and broiled. Arrange lemon slices over fish. Serve all with a dash of lemon juice.

GUINOA HEN

(Sufficient and good) (Four to six servings)

Two guinea fow, salt, pepper, melted butter.

Split chickens and clean well. Season and place, fish side up, on greased broiler. Broil 15 minutes, turn and broil 15 minutes with melted butter and broil until tender. If guinea fow is a little tough, bake a few minutes after broiling. Remove to platter and dot with butter and garnish with fried tomato rings and watercress.

BLUEBERRY PAN CAKES

(4 to 6 servings)

One and a half cups flour, 3/4 teaspoons baking powder, 3 tablespoons milk, 1 cup blueberries.

Put flour, salt and baking powder in a bowl. Mix well. Add milk and blueberries. Drop by spoonfuls on hot griddle. Cook until brown and bubbly on both sides. Turn and cook. Serve with syrup and lots of coffee.

Tomorrow's Menu

BREAKFAST: Grapefruit juice, dry cereal, blueberry griddle cakes, syrup, coffee, milk.

LUNCHEON: Creamed codfish family style, buttered toast, strawberries and cream, cookies, tea, glass lemon.

THE DEADLY SARGASSO SEA

IS NOTHING BUT A MYTH

Believe has long repeated stories of a mysterious and terrible sea, the Sargasso Sea, according to legend, the currents drag all ships to the bottom, and great waves wrap themselves about the bodies of the sailors which sink them into the water. Explorers have searched the ocean for this sea, but have failed to find anything of the sort, and have abandoned the idea that such a place exists.

With courage and wide black hair, then could be worn with tawdry

Contract Bridge

BIDDING BY INDIRECTION

Cue-bidding the opponents suit to show a lack of losers in that suit can attract a side into some contracts which could not be obtained safely by any other means. By showing your partner ability to control those suits, you, by indirection, guarantee power and control in the others.

What To Do

Your Children

By OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

People of middle age wonder why so many contemporaries are dropping out with heart disease.

They wonder why their own children, who have been so well reared, are dropping out with heart disease.

They wonder why their own children, who have been so well reared, are dropping out with heart disease.

Proper Shampooing Keeps Hair Glossy

By GLADYS GLAD

"I don't mean to brag, but I've always been considered the possessor of very pretty hair. It's very lovely when it is kept smooth and glossy."

"Lately, however, my hair seems to have become dull and listless. It is very thick, and I always have a lot of trouble in removing all of the soap from it after a shampoo. This has been bearing on the dullness of my locks."

"It is most important that you remove every bit of soap from your hair after a shampoo, for even the slightest trace of soap will detract from the lustre and sheen of your hair, and will lay a foundation that will attract floating dirt and germs."

"If you use a cake of soap for lathering your hair, stop the practice at once. It is very difficult to remove soap that has been applied in cake form thoroughly from the hair. The pure, liquid soap, after the lathering, continues to flow down your hair, and you are positive that every bit of the soapy lather has been removed."

"An ordinary bath soap is excellent for rinsing the hair, and it is not difficult to use."

"After you've rinsed your hair, wash it with a cake of soap, and add a teaspoon of lemon or orange soda to the last rinse water. This will cut all the traces of soap, and will prevent your hair from being dimmed and damaged by remains of soap which are still on your hair."

"I find that these spots appear on my nails. These spots are anything but attractive, and detract greatly from the beauty of my hands."

"The white spots that appear on my nails are anything but attractive, and detract greatly from the beauty of my hands."
